

As Coordinator of Special Projects for the Weil Foot & Ankle Institute I had the pleasure of working with Woodrow Development in the building of our 23,000 square foot world headquarters and medical clinic in Mount Prospect, Illinois. This is the only construction project that I have ever worked on that finished on time according to our initial deadline. The subcontractors that Woodrow used were of the highest quality and were quick to remedy any product that did not meet our project manager's high standards.

Our project manager with Woodrow, David Gaulin, supervised and coordinated his team through the four month construction process. David not only had weekly meetings with our team to discuss our timeline and to answer any questions, but he was also very responsive to emails and texts throughout the process. David did an excellent job of coordinating our outside vendors, including multiple furniture companies and low voltage, in order for the timeline to be most efficient and work in coordination with the other subcontractors. When we ran into road blocks, David was quick to work with us to develop solutions.

The whole process working with Woodrow Development for positive and a pleasure. I would highly recommend Woodrow Development and David Gaulin for any construction needs.

Respectfully,

Wendy Benton-Weil, DPM
